Hi Elena,

I reviewed the dispute and pulled the records currently available on our side.

For the $500.00 expedited delivery / handling charge, I have not located a separate signed PO revision. The charge was entered by our logistics team based on the requested delivery timing, but I agree the supporting authorization should be confirmed before we treat that amount as undisputed.

For the oil filters, our shipment record and carrier paperwork show 100 units were shipped. The receiving report shows 96 received. I have attached the shipment record and carrier delivery record. We are checking whether the four-unit difference resulted from a packing, transit, or receiving discrepancy.

For the $1,875.00 inventory-management service charge, the charge corresponds to the inventory-management line included in the accepted PO. I have attached the order confirmation showing that line. I am also checking the underlying service records so we can provide the detail requested.

We can discuss an account adjustment after the receiving discrepancy is reconciled. I will follow up once the remaining records are reviewed.

Thanks,
Sofia
